PRICE THREE CENTS

Miss Elizabeth Boyer Wins $250 in Cash as Campaign's Big Prize

K. L. Hankey, of York Springs, Wins Second Cash Award of $100 and Walter L. Reynolds, Of Gettysburg, Wins $75 Prize at Drawings Here Saturday Night.

EVERY PRIZE GOES INTO RURAL DISTRICTS EXCEPT THAT FOR $75

Gettysburg and Adams county's "BETTER BUSINESS CAMPAIGN" is ended.

The most successful and outstanding commercial enterprise held in this county for many years closed Saturday evening with the drawing for the $500 in cash awards. It was a climax such as has not been seen in this town for many years.

All during Saturday's trading hours the 72 merchants participating in the campaign were busy with customers taking advantage of the last minute shopping privilege to secure more coupons to enhance their chance of winning one of the coveted cash awards.

Early Saturday evening the business rush was evident on all sides and shortly after 9:30 o'clock the rural merchants, who were enrolled in the campaign started turning in their coupons.

Coupons Are Mixed Earlier in the evening all coupons that had been turned in for the previous weekly merchandise prize drawings had been emptied into the huge wire mixing machine and two men kept revolving the large cylinder to properly mix and stir the coupons. It was a difficult task to keep the coupons from stacking like decks of cards but the industrious workers kept churning the wheels that revolved about the mixing machine in which were the coveted lucky numbers that spelled "riches" for some six persons.

At four minutes before 11 o'clock Saturday evening the last merchant had reported. Every coupon had been turned in.

There were more than 110,000 coupons in the huge mixer.

The bleacher seats in the Hotel Gettysburg annex were crowded with men and women. Many stood in the rear hallway and corridor.

Promptly at 11 o'clock, after the coupons had been thoroughly mixed, an announcer stepped to the rostrum and expressed the thanks and appreciation of the participating merchants to the patrons who took advantage of the "BETTER BUSINESS CAMPAIGN."

Official Drawer Little Mary Elizabeth Rose, Baltimore street, the "official" drawer, was again introduced. She stepped to the wire mixer, inserted her little hand and drew forth one coupon from the more than 110,000.

The holder of the lucky number was Miss Elizabeth Boyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Boyer, of Arendtsville. Miss Boyer was not present when her number was drawn. She had retired for the evening. Miss Boyer receives $250 in cash.

Again the "wheel of riches" was turned and turned and again little Miss Rose inserted her hand and drew forth another coupon.

The holder of the lucky number for the second cash prize of $100 was K. L. Hankey, of York Springs. Mr. Hankey was not present when his name was drawn.

Other Winners

The winner of the third prize of $75 was won by Walter L. Reynolds, 12 Seminary street, a battlefield guide. Mr. Reynolds was not present when his number was drawn, but his son was present and when his father's name was called out the youth gave a shout and a whoop, so pleased was he that his father had won $75 in cash.

The winners of the three $25 cash awards were:

Mrs. Fred Grego, Gettysburg R. 2.
Mrs. Isaac Kemper, Gettysburg R. 2.

F. M. Bream, of Biglerville.

Merchants who participated in the campaign said it was the most successful commercial enterprise they had participated in in years. Patrons who found merchandising values at those participating stores were also well pleased with the results of the campaign, as well as with the values they received in their purchases.

Miss Dorothy Meyer has resumed her studies at Wilson college, Chambersburg, after spending the week-end at her home on Baltimore street.

Arrest Man on Serious Charge

Lloyd Virdin, 27, of Baltimore, a truck driver, was arrested near Fort Loudon, Sunday evening, on a serious charge involving a 15-year-old Mt. Joy township girl. Virdin, according to state police, picked up the girl on the Baltimore road, and took her with him. Virdin was brought back to Gettysburg and committed to the Adams county jail. The information was laid before Justice of the Peace Walter A. Snyder.

1936 LICENSE PLATES USED HERE SUNDAY

Old Tags May Be Used Until Midnight, December 31, Bureau Says.

THOUSANDS DO HAVE NEW TAGS

Pennsylvania's 1936 automobile license plates blossomed above the bumpers on numerous cars in Gettysburg and Adams county, Sunday, the first day the new tags were legal. The 1935 tags are legal until midnight, December 31.

The 1936 tags are the reverse colors of this year's plates, having blue letters and numerals on an orange background.

Unless there is a big spurt in the number of applications made to Harrisburg for the 1936 plates, many motorists will be unable to drive their cars on New Year's day, the bureau of motor vehicles announced today.

Far Short Of 1935 More than 100,000 sets of plates must be issued every working day during the balance of the year if all motor vehicles licensed for 1935 are to be eligible to operate at the beginning of 1936.

More than 1,850,000 vehicles had been registered for 1935 in Pennsylvania by the beginning of this month, but only approximately 375,000 of them had been licensed for 1936 when the bureau of motor vehicles closed for the week-end Saturday noon. While the motor code permits next year's tags to be used on or after December 15, it requires the new tags must be displayed on any vehicle operated after 1936 actually dawned. Midnight, December 31, is the last moment that 1935 tags can be used legally. The law allows no extension of time, and imposes $10 fine and costs or, in default of payment, five days in jail for persons who operate cars in 1936 on 1935 tags.

Only One Holiday Although other state employees will receive a five and one-half day Christmas vacation, the bureau of motor vehicles will have its vacation clipped merely to the one day, December 25. Each week-end the bureau closes from noon Saturday to Monday morning. That means there are eleven full days and two half days in which Pennsylvania motorists can do their license tag shopping before 1935 tags become invalid.

While almost 1,500,000 vehicles have not yet been registered for 1936, it will not be necessary to issue that number of tags in the twelve business days remaining in this year. Some cars still are stored for the winter; some will be out of the state until spring. These and other reasons have shown that only 70 per cent of Pennsylvania vehicles are licensed by the time the new year begins.

SCHOOL BIDS ARE TOO HIGH

East Berlin Board Withholds Awarding Contract; To Confer With WPA.

Bids for the construction of an addition to the East Berlin school building were opened by the school board, Saturday afternoon, but award of the contract was held up because the bids were too high.

Two contractors, one from Harrisburg and the other from Hanover, submitted proposals for the general contract, while separate bids for the heating and ventilating, plumbing and the electrical work were submitted by five other contractors.

All of the bids were considered excessive, Paul P. Lerew, president of the board, said today, in announcing that award of the contract was held in abeyance, pending a conference of the school directors with the state works progress administrator in Harrisburg on Tuesday.

DIES ON WAY TO ILL SISTER

Baltimore Woman Fatally Stricken While Walking After Car Is Mired.

Attempting to reach the home of her sister who was seriously ill, Mrs. Thomas Strickler, Baltimore, was stricken by a sudden attack of angina pectoris and died along a country road near Taneytown, Maryland, Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Mrs. Strickler was aged sixty years.

Accompanied by Mrs. Harvey Barnes and daughter and Kenneth Tracey, Baltimore, Mrs. Strickler had motored from her home to visit her sister, Mrs. George Bowers, near Bethel church, Taneytown R. D. Entering the muddy road leading to the Bowers farm and believing it impassable by automobile, the party started to walk. They had covered considerable distance and were about a half mile from the Bowers home when Mrs. Strickler collapsed.

Nearby farm folk carried Mrs. Strickler to the Bowers home. Dr. H. S. Crouse, Littlestown, who was summoned, pronounced her dead and called Sherman E. Flanagan, Westminister, coroner of Carroll county. Coroner Flanagan and State's Attorney George N. Fringer, of Carroll county, decided an inquest into the sudden death would not be necessary.

Mrs. Strickler before marriage was Miss Minnie Baker, of Mechanicsville, Carroll county. Her home in Baltimore was at 2521 Francis street. She is survived by her husband, two sons, John and Sherman Strickler, and one daughter, Mrs. May Quinn, Baltimore; two grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. George Bowers, near Bethel church.

The body was removed by J. W. Little, Littlestown funeral director, and prepared for burial. It will be taken to the Strickler home in Baltimore. Burial will be in the cemetery adjoining the church.

PLEADS GUILTY ON WET CHARGE

Officer Aughinbaugh and State Agents Raid Home Of S. E. Shull.

S. E. Shull, about 35, of Straban township, signed a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace John C. Shealer this morning, following a raid on Shull's home, Saturday afternoon, in which officers said they found a quantity of alleged moonshine liquor and a complete still.

Shull was not at home when Officer George B. Aughinbaugh and William A. Brandt and A. H. Zeitler, both of the state liquor control board, Harrisburg, armed with a search warrant visited the Shull premises.

A warrant charging Shull with the illegal manufacture and possession of moonshine liquor was laid before Justice Shealer by Officer Brandt.

According to the raiding officers, eleven one-gallon jugs of alleged moonshine liquor; one 10-gallon jug partly filled and a complete 20-gallon copper still were seized at Shull's home.

FIVE INJURED WHEN TWO CARS COLLIDE HEADON

One Driver Swerves Machine From Off Road Into Path of Another Car.

BOTH MACHINES BADLY DAMAGED

Five persons were injured in a head-on collision of two automobiles on the Lincoln Highway, four miles east of Gettysburg, at 10 o'clock, Sunday morning. All were treated at the Warner hospital.

The cars, both sedans, were driven by John N. Florio, 29, of Chambersburg, and H. G. Elliott, 39, of Clarksburg, West Virginia, the former traveling east.

Elliott's machine, coming toward Gettysburg, got off the hard surface of the highway, and to avoid crashing into a telephone pole, the driver swerved his car back onto the highway, directly into the path of Florio's sedan.

The most painfully injured was James Stutler, 32, of Clarksburg, who had four teeth, two in his upper jaw and two in his lower jaw knocked out. He also suffered lacerations on the head and lower lip.

Cars Are Damaged Mrs. Florio, wife of the Chambersburg driver, suffered cuts on the head, lower lip and right knee and contusions of the chest. Mrs. James Norcross, 24, of Chambersburg, another occupant of Florio's machine, was cut on the forehead, right knee, left forearm and right hand. Florio suffered cuts on the forehead and hands.

Elliott, driver of the other car in the crash, was cut on the back of his right hand and suffered a contused chest.

C. Arthur Brame, Gettysburg R. 5, prothonotary-elect of Adams county, who lives near the scene of the accident, brought the injured to the Warner hospital.

Florio's sedan, a practically new machine, was damaged to the extent of approximately $300. Damage to Elliott's car, a sedan of 1925 vintage, was damaged to the extent of approximately $50. Both machines had to be towed from the scene of the accident.

Corporal S. Schaeffer, of the local sub-station of the state highway patrol, investigated the accident.

APPLY FOR LICENSE Applications for marriage licenses were filed at the office of C. F. Palmer, clerk of the courts, Saturday afternoon, by Lavere G. Mummet, 25, of Hanover, and Miss Mildred C. Bechtel, 33, of Conowingo township, and by Charles A. Ervin, 21, of Waynesboro, and Miss Ruth E. Day, 22, of Gettysburg.

Democratic Chairman

District Attorney John P. Butt, who was elected chairman of the Adams county democratic committee at a meeting of the committee in the court house, Saturday evening.

BUTT ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF CO. DEMOCRATS

Democratic Committee Holds Surprise Meeting Here Saturday Night.

COLGAN FRIENDS OPPOSE ACTION

F. X. Colgan, of McSherrystown, chairman of the Adams county democratic committee, associate judge of the county courts and director of the state bureau of corporations, was ousted from his political post as chairman of his party, at a surprise meeting of the committee, in the court house, Saturday evening.

District Attorney John P. Butt was elected county chairman by sixty members of the group after the remaining members of the committee had "bolted" from the room in opposition to the ouster proceedings.

Friction in the high ranks of the democratic party in Adams county has been brewing several months and there were open reports of a "break" for several weeks. However, the climax of the tension was not reached until Saturday night.

When Colgan and his followers demanded to know who called the meeting and upon what authority, it was explained by Roy P. Funkhouser, democratic state committee chairman, that "upon legal advice" the meeting was called by the vice chairman and the letters were signed by "vice chairman, democratic county committee," Miss Edna Eicholtz refusing to sign her name to the notice.

Petitions Circulated Mr. Funkhouser also stated the meeting was called after a petition had been signed by 51 per cent of the county committee.

William Eckert, of Gettysburg, called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for a chairman. J. D. Clapsaddle, of Mt. Joy township, was chosen without opposition. He explained that anything he said or did was as chairman of the meeting and not as J. D. Clapsaddle, individually.

Fighting to keep his place at the head of the party, Colgan denounced the legality of the meeting and denied that he had given his resignation, declaring he intended to serve out his two-year term.

Sed Weaver, of McSherrystown, a Colgan supporter, attempted to break-up the meeting when he asked those in attendance to leave the meeting.

Approximately half of more than 100 men and women in attendance walked out with Weaver. This group stood in the corridor outside the court room and heckled those in the meeting.

The roll call that followed revealed 60 committeemen, or their proxies, in attendance. A checkup of the number of committeemen on the list showed 109, giving those in attendance at the meeting a working majority.

Chairman Clapsaddle then read from the petition, signed, he said, by 51 per cent of the county committee, calling for the meeting to elect a county chairman. It was then decided to go into executive session but no effort was made to clear the room.

Resignation Issue J. Walter Kugler, of Liberty township, was elected secretary and the chairman asked for a roll call. After some delay, C. B. Dougherty, of Gettysburg, and Clerk of the Courts Clayton F. Palmer produced copies of the roll of committeemen.

Seb Weaver denounced the legality of the meeting and declared that Colgan had not resigned.

James C. Cole, of The Narrows, a former county chairman, said that Colgan's resignation had been given to the executive committee some time ago.

After considerable discussion and verbal roll calls, 63 "Ayes" were counted and the meeting proceeded. Harry Gilbert, Gettysburg, asked Chairman Clapsaddle if he had Colgan's resignation and the latter said he did not.

Weaver and his followers then bolted the meeting but Colgan remained.

It was then moved that Colgan's resignation be accepted but Colgan declared that he had not resigned. Chairman Clapsaddle then said that he recalled that Colgan's resignation had been presented at a meeting of the executive committee and that it had been tabled.

Upon motion the committeemen then voted to ask Colgan for his resignation but Colgan again declared that he intended to serve out his term.

Declare Post Vacant It was then voted to declare the (Continued on Page Two)

RELIEF MONEY FOR 5 MONTHS

Secretary of Revenue State Can Finance Relief Until About June 1.

Philadelphia, Dec. 14 (AP).—Harry E. Kalodner, secretary of revenue, said Sunday night there is no danger of direct relief stopping in Pennsylvania before at least May 30, 1936.

Kalodner, after a checkup on the state's financial position and reports from revenue department and relief auditors, said the state has more than $34,000,000 available for relief, enough to take care of all needy persons until the end of May.

He said that the state on January 1, 1936, will have a balance of $32,000,000 from the $60,000,000 appropriation for relief for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936.

Find Another 2 Million
In addition, another $2,000,000 has been found, and earmarked for use for direct relief if necessary, making a total of $34,000,000 available.

Expenditures for direct relief in the state are now at the rate of $6,000,000 a month. If expenditures continue at that rate, the $34,000,000 would last until the end of the first week of May.

However, the present direct relief expenditures include payments to 110,000 men now on the WPA rolls but still carried on the direct relief rolls because under the regulations men hired by WPA are not cut off from direct relief for three weeks after the date they are listed with WPA. Sometimes they are carried a couple of weeks longer because of delays in WPA payrolls.

Within a few weeks these men will be off the relief rolls, materially reducing the amount of direct relief funds needed each month and stretching considerably the period the $34,000,000 can cover.

Enough To Last To May 30
"It is obvious then," declared Kalodner, "that even if the impossible should occur, even if WPA did not hire another man from now on, there would be enough money for direct relief until at least May 30."

"And that's about as conservative a statement as could be made. By every rule of logic the money now available should take care of direct relief, not neglecting a single needy man, woman or child, until long after May 30, 1936."

"There is absolutely no basis for the rumors that there is any danger of direct relief in this state being halted in the near future. The governor has pledged time and again that no one in this state shall starve. Surely the governor's record alone should have been enough to dispel all fears, in view of such a statement from him."

Seeks To Quiet Rumors
"However, because of the wild rumors spread by persons who obviously have not the slightest bit of true information and are totally misinformed about the situation, I feel it proper now to release the figures."

6 BURNED TO DEATH ON FARM

Two Are Burned Severely as Flames Sweep Four-room Oklahoma Dwelling.

Carnegie, Okla., Dec. 16 (AP).—Six persons were burned to death Sunday as fire ravaged the four-room farm home of George Bailey thirteen miles west of Carnegie. Two others were burned severely. Five fled the house. A defective flue apparently caused the blaze.

The dead were: Jarret, 8; Gerald, 6, and Lillian Gene, 3, all children of the Baileys. William Bailey, 24, a half-brother of George.

Marvin Floyd, 15, and Harry Lee Floyd, 11, nephews.

The severely burned: George Bailey, who rented the house and worked as a farm hand. Mrs. Laura Bailey, 49, stepmother of Bailey.

Takes Survivors to Neighbors
Despite his serious burns, George Bailey took the other six survivors in his car to the home of a neighbor where ambulances were summoned.

The fire, occurring early Sunday, enveloped the house before the occupants were aware of it.

"The flames were in my bedroom when I woke up," George Bailey said.

"I couldn't get out the door so I broke down an unused door which had been nailed shut and escaped. Then I went back into the house and tried to save some others but the roof started falling and I had to clear out. My clothes were on fire."

Body Found in Ruins
Others fled through doors and windows.

"When I reached the scene, the body of one of the Floyds was lying across the door sill as though he had gone that far before he fell," related Harry Jolly, state conservation commission employee.

"Other bodies were in the midst of the debris and it appeared they had not been able to leave their beds."

The flames aroused neighbors who stood by helpless to aid the screaming persons inside the house.

State Plans to Rebuild Highway

The state highway department announced today it will receive bids Friday, December 27, to rebuild 1.18 miles of United States route 15, (Gettysburg-Harrisburg pike), in Carroll and Franklin townships, York county.

The reconstruction, which will include a certain amount of relocation, is for the purpose of eliminating a bad curve near Clear Spring.

Specifications for the contract call for building reinforced concrete pavement twenty feet wide, construction of two concrete drainage structures, and grading of shoulders. The work will be financed entirely from state funds.

WOMAN WHO "MARRIED"

9 OTHER WOMEN CAUGHT

Moscow, Dec. 16 (AP).—A woman accused as posing as a man and "marrying" nine other women in a period of four years only to rob and abandon them was arrested Sunday at Kadievka, in the Don Basin.

She is Vera Zavarykina and her system, authorities said, was to get her "bride" drunk on vodka on the wedding day and make off with her possessions while she remained in a stupor. Everything went all right until the last of the nine remained conscious under the influence of the liquor and called police. Vera was arrested before she could complete her getaway.

Police said the woman, between courtships and marriages, wore feminine clothing.

ITALIANS ARE ON DEFENSIVE

Expect Attack From 40,000 Ethiopians; Britain to Answer Critics.

(By The Associated Press)

A counter-attack on critics of the Anglo-French plan for ending the Italo-Ethiopian war is in preparation by the British government.

In receipt of a crescendo of protests against what sharpshooters of the plan contend is a formula for dismembering the kingdom of Haile Selassie, Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, informed sources said today, is collecting material for presentation to the House of Commons.

The British cabinet in token of the seriousness with which Britain has received the storm of criticism at Geneva and in various European capitals evoked by publication of the Paris scheme for ending the war, met in an emergency session.

News of a distinctly different flavor came meanwhile from the southern front. There, where General Rudolfo Graziani a few weeks ago was pushing persistently northward in a strategic move to establish an Italian corridor between northern and southern Ethiopia, the Fascist army conceded it had taken the defensive.

From Dolo the Associated Press correspondent dispatched a report that Italy's weary southern forces were braced for an attack expected momentarily from a mass of 40,000 Ethiopian warriors under Ras Desta Demtu.

This would constitute the first major Ethiopian offensive. The Ethiopian army consists of three main columns, driving forward on a front 30 miles from Dolo on the frontier of Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland.

In the first accident, Pollard, Keefe and John Martin were hurled to the road when their car hit a tree. Dazele, unconscious, remained in the machine.

Martin hailed two motorists and was helping place the injured in one of the cars when the second collision occurred.

In the world war he was attached to various training camps. He was retired for disability in November, 1920, while attached to the Forty-sixth Infantry at Eagle Pass, Texas. A native of Owego, he had lived here since retirement.

50 MADE ILL AT CLUB'S SUPPER

Hurried Call for Physicians And Nurses; Ptomaine Poisoning Cause.

Pottstown, Dec. 16 (AP).—Approximately 50 cases of ptomaine poisoning after a public dinner given under the auspices of the Doehler Die Casting Club of Pottstown in Odd Fellows' Hall brought a hurried call for physicians and nurses between nine o'clock Sunday night and three o'clock this morning. Many of the victims were critically ill from the attack. Although a few cases developed early in the evening the majority were reported between 10 P. M. and 3 A. M.

Both physicians and nurses were routed from their beds during the night to attend the ill. The dinner was held as a benefit of the Christmas fund of the Die Caster Club. Between 700 and 800 were served at the supper.

Among those who suffered the attack were Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs, of 367 Chestnut street. Briggs, personnel manager for the die casting company, on returning home was taken ill. Almost immediately after his wife suffered an attack and fell on the kitchen floor while procuring medicine for her husband. Albert Kramer, president of the club, and his wife, of 1259 Queen street, were other victims. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell, of South Feltstown, and five guests whom they were entertaining, were stricken. Mr. and Mrs. Clair Haag, 33 High street, were other victims. Mr. and Mrs. Sheldrake Hartman, 533 Beech street, were seriously ill through the night. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kinckiner, 820 North Evans street, were among the cases.

Kinckiner, who is a grocer, returned to his store with his wife after the supper and upon entering, Mrs. Kinckiner, who is about 80 years old, was taken violently ill. She was hurried to her home by her husband and while a son-in-law, William Thomas, went for a doctor, Kinckiner himself fell ill on the bathroom floor. Nearly all of the victims of the supper were still in bed Sunday. None, however, was admitted to the hospital.

Hollywood.—The next great feud of professional jealousy between actors may be in the coming stellar firmament. May be? It is.

"Buck," the great St. Bernard who started the new dog cycle in "Call of the Wild," and "Prince," an ubiquitous Great Dane who sometimes doubles for a leopard, are scarcely speaking. Barking at each other, yes, and furiously. But passing the time of day in customary politeness? No, says Carl Spitz, their fond owner and "educator."

Contract Star
"It's professional jealousy," says Carl, who prefers to be known as an "educator" rather than trainer of dogs. "Buck is aware that he has done something in pictures, and I am positive he knows that Prince is a rival in his new profession. They are friendly with all the other dogs at my place—about 85 of them now—but they can't stand each other. It must be professional jealousy—or is it?"

If it is, then Buck has the last bark at present. He is a contract star—salary $350 a week to start, progressing to $5,000 for the fifth year—while Prince is a free-lance who takes his jobs where he finds them.

Buck, the fair-haired dog of moviedom now, a few months ago was a privately owned pet whose mistress presented him to Carl Spitz as a present. When Carl was approached with a movie offer, he demurred, insisting Buck was not yet ready for such a test. When they insisted, Spitz "educated" him for the camera in four weeks. And there was never a dog who "swallowed his lessons" so rapidly, says the owner.

Carl's course of training is based on systematic routine, which is incidentally the common modern method of instructing children. All the dogs have a uniform schedule of rising, retiring, eating, exercising. For infractions or discipline they go to the "dog house," but corporal punishment is rarely necessary.

Has Own Radio

"They know, by the look in your eye, when they have done wrong," he says.

Buck, whom Spitz credits with the intelligence of an eight-year-old child, is an ideal camera dog because of his natural expression. Two and a half years old, the dog weighs 190 pounds, and eats five pounds of meat daily—an item which helps raise his maintenance cost to $100 a month. At Spitz's place he has his own "private room" with his own davenport and radio. (Organ music brings out his howling best.) And he gets a very special kind of shampoo, to preserve his coat, once a week.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Allaire West just has dropped in on her dissipated father at his enormous estate in Virginia. But she cannot stick it out, and starts back to Washington to visit her giddy mother. Ray West, disconcerted in turn, orders his private car to be attached to the New York train. Meanwhile, Terry Willett just has returned his father to Carteret, Va., for his long rest—and while talking to the rector is wondering whether to go back to the tropics and his engineering contract.

Chapter 19.

INTRUSION

The venerable rector, who had both christened and buried Lawrence Willett, was disturbed—this powerful bronzed son was getting ready to ride again. He tried to arouse in him some softening sense of family by pointing out the various inscriptions in the little churchyard.

He showed Willett where lay the ancestor who had been killed in the fighting around Fort Duquesne in the Year of Our Lord seventeen hundred and forty-five. The marker was of red stone, weathered, cracked, and nearly undecipherable.

There was the Willett who had come home to die from the rigors of the Lewis and Clark empire-building expedition, and the three sons of Judge Nathaniel Willett who had galloped hell-for-leather with "Beauty" Smart's cavalry into lines of belching guns.

Quite an illustrious cavalcade to ride behind alone, but Terry Willett had been knocking around the world too long to have assimilated any sense of family. He listened courteously and then looked at his wrist watch.

"Good-bye, sir," he said. "I'll be pushing along."

"Terence," said the minister, "haven't you thought you might have a duty to—all of them here?" Willett gave him a long straight glance.

"Duty," he said. "Don't talk to me of duty, sir. I'm a bust as an engineer and a worse bust as a son. Let it go at that."

The minister didn't want to let it go at that by any means, but there was nothing he could do about it. "At least you might be interested in seeing your old home," he urged, putting his stiff aged fingers into Willett's firm and youthful clasp. "A graceful courtesy to your father, Terence."

"Where is the governor's place?" The minister furnished explicit directions. Willett nodded.

"Might take a look at it. Thanks for everything; you were damn decent."

He strode off. "You were damn decent." The minister shook his head slowly, put his pince-nez back astride his nose, and reflected sadly that divinity schools have their limits.

The historic town square was protected by an iron fence—there was some sort of a statue—Willett walked through the town of his forefathers with the attitude of a man waiting for his train to get through a tunnel.

But he stopped to look at the house where his father had been born—a big white house with six columns rising to the roof cornice. There was a drive through an avenue of locust trees and at one side of the house were the overgrown remains of a terraced garden.

Nobody had lived here for some time—the house was boarded up, the grass needed mowing, and a weatherbeaten sign stuck in the lawn announced the property was for sale or rent and referred to some bank.

His face was a study as he looked searchingly at the place, as if to drink in a picture that would last, because this was a day of last farewells before the world moved on. Some day he might want to remember it, some day, somewhere—

The fast-flying "Old Dominion" disdained to stop in Carteret for the sake of passengers, but the little matter of a water tank was accepted as a necessary evil.

Clouds of steam issued from the hot boxes, a conductor waited watch in hand on the platform for the flash, and two little barefooted negro boys stood near the observation platform of a long silver-gray private car named "Dubutante II," their eyes popping out of their heads.

Terry Willett arrived at the station on the jump.

"That was the New York train?" he asked the station agent.

"Yeah, but it ain't the local," said the agent. "This train don't stop for passengers."

"Whatever it's doing now," said Willett, "is all right with me."

He walked over to "Dubutante II" and swung up on the observation platform.

"Hey!" yelled a brakeman. "That's a private car."

"Do tell me," said Willett. "What's private about it?"

"I'm tellin' you you can't ride there."

"If you don't like it," said Willett, "there are any number of things you can do with it."

A negro in white servitor's coat came out on the platform.

"This is a private car, suh," he warned. "You can't ride heah. Ah'm tellin' you."

"Listen, you," said Willett. "You can't tell me anything."

"Tough guy, huh?" commented the brakeman from the station platform.

"Come on up here, flunky," invited Willett, "and find out for yourself."

The brakeman decided it didn't really make any difference anyway, but the negro began an officious protest. Willett inquired if he'd like to be tossed right the hell off the train entirely.

The inquiry was attended with an unmistakable eagerness and put an end to further argument. The train began to move, and Willett brushed him aside and went into the car.

It was a private car all right—big club chairs, a small mahogany bar, thick grey carpet and soft-toned curtains—a blend of luxurious comfort and modernistic beauty.

A pretty girl and two men were shooting dice on the floor. Tall glasses reposed perilously close to their heels, and a nearby buffet table was laden with a parade of bottles and bowls of cracked ice.

"Listen," the girl was saying spiritedly, "I left a six here and you can't put me behind the eight ball with Snake Eyes. A woman has some rights, you pirates."

Her indignant pronouncement met with an exception from one of the men, a young army officer.

She leaned weakly back on her heels and noticed Willett.

"Well, well," she observed, "look what wandering boy saw the light in the window."

POPE NAMES 20 CARDINALS

Sacred College Is Now Within One of Prescribed Number of Seventy.

Vatican City, Dec. 16 (AP).—Pius XI created twenty new cardinals, filling the Sacred College almost to the limit.

His appointments will bring the College of Cardinals to within only one of the seventy cardinals stipulated by Vatican regulations.

The Sacred College assembled behind guarded doors to give an affirmative vote to the pope's selections by raising their red hats in symbol of approval.

Vote To Be Formality

The vote, for many centuries a formality, will be followed by two more ceremonies. On Wednesday in secret session the twenty will receive the red hats symbolical of their rank. On Thursday there will be the final and public presentation at a consistory held in St. Peter's Basilica.

The dignitaries waiting in Rome to receive the new elevation were not present at today's consistory. They will wait in their apartments to receive the papal messenger inviting them to the meeting on Wednesday.

Creation of the new dignitaries will restore the traditional Italian supremacy in the college of cardinals. At present there are 24 Italians there and 25 foreigners. By naming 14 of the 20 from among his countrymen, the Pope will bring the balance to 38 Italians and 31 foreigners.

First Argentine Cardinal

Today's consistory brings special honor and joy to Argentine Catholics, who will see their first Cardinal named. Archbishop Santiago Luis Copello, of Buenos Aires, who organized the Eucharistic Congress there last year, will be one of the two living Latin-American cardinals, the second being His Eminence, Sebastiano Leme, of Brazil.

Besides Italy and Argentina, France will receive two new cardinals, and Spain, Czechoslovakia and Syria one each.

The bearded Assyrian, Ignatius Gabriel Tappouni, barely escaped martyrdom in the World War. He was imprisoned by Turkish authorities and condemned to death, but obtained a reprieve.

He will be the first prelate of the East to wear the purple since the death of Cardinal Hassuni, of Armenia, who was named by Pope Leo XIII. Hassuni was the first Eastern Cardinal since the fifteenth century.

Wings Capture Second Victory

The Gettysburg Fleet-Wings hung up their second straight victory of the season by defeating Dorsey's Five at Hagerstown over the weekend, 47-40.

After piling up a 25-18 lead in the first half the Wings took things easy in the second half and coasted in to an easy triumph.

Jake Dracha was the outstanding player for the Wings, looping six goals and a foul to carry off the scoring honors of the game. Kitzmiller and Vergot each contributed nine points. Wiebahl was the luminary for the Maryland quintet.

ARGENTINA EASES TAX

Buenos Aires (AP).—Argentina, by abolishing a 10 per cent tax on steamer tickets, hopes to get more visitors from North America and Europe. Tourist agencies protested when British trippers, who spent 24 hours here, were taxed $50 each for their look at Buenos Aires. That tax now applies only to persons who stay 60 days.

Dogs and Coyotes Rob Turkey Flock

Bartlesville, Okla. (AP).—Dogs and coyotes stole the crown of Mrs. Hamp Scudder, perennial "turkey queen" of this region.

From her big ranch northeast of here she usually markets 1,200 to 1,800 turkeys each holiday season. The roving canines' raids have cut her flock by 400 or more birds, she estimated.

An abolitionist, named Gold, from encouragement, in his "notions,"

that he "evaporated," without a repetition of his "experiment."

The inauguration of the Governor took place at Harrisburg, on Tuesday last, in the Hall of the House of Representatives. An immense crowd was assembled to witness the ceremony. The correspondent to the U. S. Gazette says:
"The procession arrived at the Hall
about 15 minutes after 12 o'clock,
and considerable difficulty arose in admitting the procession. The mob rushed to the door, and a very disgraceful scene followed. The Military were obliged to make use of their swords and muskets.—I have been present at several Inaugura-tions, but have never witnessed such an ungovernable mob. The noise was so great that the Governor was interrupted three or four times during the delivery of his address. I have never before beheld such a scene anywhere, let alone the peaceable borough of Harrisburg. Some were considerably injured." The oath of office was administered to the Governor-elect by the Speaker of the Senate.

the God of his father Isaac.

And God spake unto Israel in
the visions of the night, and said,
Jacob, Jacob. And he said, Here
am I.

And he said, I am God, the God

into Egypt; for I will there make of thee a great nation.

I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will also surely bring thee up again: and Joseph shall

And Jacob rose up from Beer-

School Examination: The Public Schools of this Borough were closed on Friday last, to be opened again on the 14th of January—the Board having determined, instead
of three months' summer vacation,
to have two months' recess in mid-
summer, and one in mid-winter,
thus dividing the School term into two sessions of 4½ months each.
The late session closed with the usual public examination, in the presence of the Board of Directors
and Parents, which we understand,
was eminently satisfactory and every way creditable to the Teachers, Mr. Baugher, Mr. Lytle, Miss McClellan and Miss Whiteside.

Brigade Staff: Brigadier General C. H. Buehler has made the following appointments:
Aid-de-Camp—Franklin Hersh

Quartermaster—C. B. Haines
(with rank of Captain).
Pay-Master—F. B. Pickering, (with rank of Captain).
Surgeon—Dr. Theodore T. Tate,
(with rank of Major).
Judge Advocate—Wm. A. Duncan,
Esq., (with rank of Major).
These gentlemen are all "first rate," and will fill their respective offices in the most acceptable manner—ready for any emergency.

Married: At Washington, Delaware, on the 26th of 11th month,

Property Sales.—Mr. John
Pfautz has sold his farm on Marsh Creek, (formerly McGaughy's) to
Mr. John Soos—214 acres, for $8,- 000 cash.

Mr. John Forsyth has sold his house and lot on the "Wolf hill,"
to Mr. Henry M. Bishop, (of Geo.)
for $250.

Mr. Philip Winter has sold his two story brick dwelling, adjoining Christ church to Dr. John L. Hill
(the present residence of the latter) for $2,030.

Town Improvements: Francis
Kuhn has nearly completed a two story brick dwelling on North Stratton street.

Jacob Codori has in an equal
state of forwardness a two-story
brick residence adjoining.
Adam Doersom has nearly finished a two-story frame, weather-
boarded, on the same street, and Geo. C. Crass has in progress a two story brick house near by, to be occupied by spring. These improvements, when finished, will add very much to the appearance
of that quarter.

Joseph Wible's double two-story
brick dwelling, with an attic, on Carlisle street, (nearly done), is a very handsome structure—may be classed among the largest and most attractive in the town.

The President's House, on the College grounds, lacks only a few finishing touches. It is a two story brick, and painted the same color
as the other buildings—white.—We like its style for the purpose, very much, and are told that it possesses every convenience. It is creditable to the college.—Compler.

board of trustees of the Carnegie
Institution of Washington, including in its membership Gen. John J.

priation of $1,572,000 for scientific

ON RENEWING YOUR LIFE

NO MATTER what has gone on in the past, there is forever something new and interesting that is transpiring before our very eyes.
Even old experiences, lived over are something new, and each time, life is renewed.

A friend came into my office the other day. I have known him for a quarter of a century, yet to me, he always suggests youth, for he brings something to me, and when he has left me, I find that he has not gone wholly, but left something of himself that gives to me new life, new hope, new spiritual spur. I know much of what he has experienced—plenty of trouble, anxieties that ate into his heart, and disappointments. Yet he has always bounded back. He has been forever creating new life within himself, and loaning it out, without interest, to others.

Every time I view a field of cows, feeding, every time I come upon a strange flower in some neglected spot, every time I meet a new friend, or interesting human being, every time I watch a dog at play, I come upon new life. It is said there is nothing new, and yet, everything is new!

It was Plato who wrote: "Survey the courses of the stars, and join their heavenly race." Life is touched with a tinge of bitterness as we look down, but is set aglow with hope as we look up.

Other approval may flatter and please us, but only the inner approval of our own heart counts in our character reckoning. "To thine own self be true," said the understanding Shakespeare. And Burton, in his Kasidah, expressed the same thought when he wrote to expect from none but self applause.

To ever be re-acting from all the experiences of life, whether new or old, faced again is to renew your life and keep it upon an even keel.

As each year comes to a close—never to return—we live much in retrospect. It shouldn't sadden us, however, for each new year should suggest a glorious re-newing!

Gridiron Club 'Gate Crasher'
Traps Doherty With Subpena

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP).—A process server in white tie and tails "crashed" the exclusive Gridiron Club attended by President Roosevelt Saturday night and presented Henry L. Doherty, utilities
magnate, with 14 subpoenas.

The server, Gerald W. Sickler, former amateur actor at George Washington University, walked up to Doherty with papers for suits
filed against him by persons claiming to have bought $50,000 worth of stock in the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company.

The suit alleges misrepresenta-
tion of the stock.

"How are you, Mr. Doherty?"
said the formally-attired Sickler
upon reaching the table where the Cities Service head was seated.

"How are you?" returned Doherty
politely.

"I have something for you," said
Sickler, and handed him the papers, which had been issued three weeks ago by Justice Jennings Bal-
ley. They call for an answer in 14 days.

Sickler obtained admission to the banquet with ease. Posing as a guest he took an elevator to the

Peralta-Ramos after eight years of married life.

Onion Harvest May
End Church Debt

Raymondville, Tex. (AP).—If it's a good onion crop, the First Methodist church here will be out of debt
after harvest.

Rural parishioners, instead of giving cash, have pledged onion land to the church. The church will have about 200 acres in onions which have been set aside by the members and will be planted, plowed and cultivated by them.

The church will pay for the harvest.

Blame Officials for Fatal
Floggings in Tampa, Florida

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 16 (AP).—Responsibility for the flogging death of Joseph Shoemaker was laid at the door of public officialdom Sunday by Tampa ministers in a service of public penitence.

The footsteps of those responsible,
said the Rev. G. F. Snyder, of St.
Paul's Lutheran church, "can be traced to the very citadel of justice
and law administration."

Public officials did not participate in the mass-meeting, and there was no immediate comment from official sources. It was one of several protest meetings.

Seized Near Headquarters
Shoemaker, E. P. Poulnot and S.
D. Rogers were seized by a ruffian band outside Tampa police headquarters as they were released after being arrested in a raid conducted without a warrant and questioned on alleged communistic activities. Poul-
not and Rogers recovered, but Shoemaker died from his beating and the application of hot tar and feathers.

Although the flogging was November 30, and Shoemaker died a week ago, there have been no arrests. The county grand jury will institute an investigation today, but prosecuting
officials said their evidence might not be ready immediately. They have not listed any witnesses to be called.

The Rev. R. E. Wicker told a public mass-meeting a feeling of distrust of local government has grown up in the minds of Tampa citizens
as a result of crimes in recent months.

"Far and Whitewash"
"The Tampa mind," he said, "is indicated by a sign in a lumber yard
here which reads: 'Tar Today;
Whitewash Tomorrow.'" The sign
was painted shortly after the flogging.

The Rev. Walter Metcalf, president of the Ministerial Association,
said the killing of Shoemaker was
"only a symptom of a deep-seated disease" in public office. Crimes of violence in the past, he said, have been forgotten, "but this forgetting
must not happen again."

Public officials, meanwhile said
they were continuing their efforts to obtain information of the Shoemaker
case, so as to present a compact case to the grand jury. They have said arrests would not be made until the investigation is complete, but Sheriff J. R. McLeod and State's Attorney Rex Farrior have said "arrests
will be made."

8,000 Jobless Musicians Work
On Cultural Projects of WPA

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP).—Employment of 8,000 musicians on work-relief musical projects in nineteen states was reported Sunday by Director Nikolai Sokoloff along with the formation of more than 100
bands and orchestras.

Sokoloff, the head of the musical branch of WPA's $27,000,000 cultural program, predicted that before long
"between 16,000 and 17,000 musicians
will be employed at the various kinds of work for which they have been especially trained."

With many famous musicians, including George Gershwin and Paul Whiteman, on his advisory committee, Sokoloff's division is the largest of four intended to provide suitable employment for most of the writers,
actors, artists and musicians on relief.

Sokoloff said his division had set up twenty-one concert and symphony orchestras, twenty-two bands,
twenty-five chamber music ensembles, forty-three choruses and quar-
tets, twenty-eight dance orchestras,
three light opera companies, five
music-teaching projects, six projects
employing trained music copyists, librarians, tuners and music binders,
and one project for soloists.

Symphony orchestras are located in
New York city, with five, and in
New Orleans, Salem, Newton and Worcester, Mass.; Grand Rapids,
Jackson and Lansing, Mich.; Omaha; Buffalo and Yonkers, N. Y.; Durham, N. C.; Portland, Ore., two;
San Antonio, Texas, Richmond, Va.
In addition, five orchestras of the symphonic type are located in Duval county, Highlands county, Pensacola, Tampa and West Palm Beach, Fla., besides a concert orchestra in Miami.

Sokoloff said one teaching project
of "especial interest" was instruction
being given by Mme. Olga Samaroff Stokowski in methods of teaching adults how to understand music
when they hear it.

He said other phases of the program would make it possible for composers to try out new compositions to the public, as well as for young conductors to test their abilities.

STATE TO BUY CAPITAL PORT

Harrisburg Field Will Be Developed as Second Largest in State.

Harrisburg, Dec. 16 (AP).—Governor Earle approved Friday purchase by the state of the Harrisburg airport at New Cumberland, York county, which will be developed as the second largest airport in Pennsylvania under the WPA.

WPA officials said they hoped improvements to the airport and its equipment could be started within 10 days, employing 600 men.

Purchase of the airport by the state was necessary to get federal money.

The governor approved the purchase after a conference with Harry E. Kalodner, secretary of revenue; Major John P. Morris, airport director of the WPA; Warren Van Dyke, secretary of highways, and Camille Vinet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics.

The project will cost approximately $715,000. The state will contribute about $55,000 and the WPA the remainder.

The landing field will be part of a $14,000,000 airport development program in Pennsylvania. It will be second only to Philadelphia, which is constructing an airport as a works project.

Money from the motor license fund will be used to finance the state's participation. The revenue was made available for airport development by the legislature.

Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti said the work of checking titles to determine whether the landing field is unencumbered probably will be completed within a week.

ADMITS TRYING TO LOOT BANK

Lone Bandit Confesses He Fired Shot to Scare Teller in Robbery Attempt.

Lock Haven, Pa., Dec. 16 (AP).—Raymond Simcox, 21, a son of Fred Simcox, of Tylersville, in Clinton county, confessed Sunday police officials state, that he was the lone bandit who attempted to rob the Logantown bank last Thursday afternoon and fired a shot from a revolver at the teller, W. E. Meyer, to "scare" him.

The bullet narrowly missed the cashier, W. A. Morris, seated at a desk at the rear of the room. The bandit escaped in a stolen auto when he lost his nerve after Meyer set off an alarm bell.

When arrested Simcox brandished a revolver, which caused Chief Sicuranza, of Renovo, to lodge a firearms possession charge against him.

Corporal William Tevelin, of the Rockview detail of State police, worked two days and two nights in the case, aided by a corps of plainclothesmen, State, Federal and county officials, with Chief of Police Martin J. Peters, of Lock Haven.

The trail led from the bank at Loganton, through Centre county circling back to Lock Haven, thence back to Tylersville, to Coudersport, where Simcox had been employed in a toy factory, but was laid off several weeks ago, and where he was a friend of Sally Toland of Coudersport R. D. 1, whom he expected to marry this week. A letter found in his person disclosed, officials state.

The robbery was planned in advance, police state Simcox admitted, "in order to secure funds to purchase a radio for the wedding trip." Simcox was lodged in the Clinton county jail.

DEPORTATION OF 2,600

ALIENS IS POSTPONED

St. Louis, Dec. 16 (AP).—Daniel V. McCormack, United States commissioner of immigration, said Friday, he had postponed deportation of 2,600 aliens in the hope that congress at its next session will revise the immigration law to do away with "medieval injustices which now prevail."

"If we have to send these 2,600 persons out of the country," he said, "they will leave about 7,000 dependents, many of whom will necessarily become public charges."

"All of these persons whose deportation have thus been stayed are of good character, responsible men in their communities, yet under the law they must be torn from their families and sent to some foreign country for some non-criminal violation of the immigration law."

American Fruit Ousts Spanish Perpignan, France (AP).—California oranges have displaced Spanish in the markets here although Perpignan is virtually on the border. Failure of France and Spain to reach a trade agreement caused the switch.

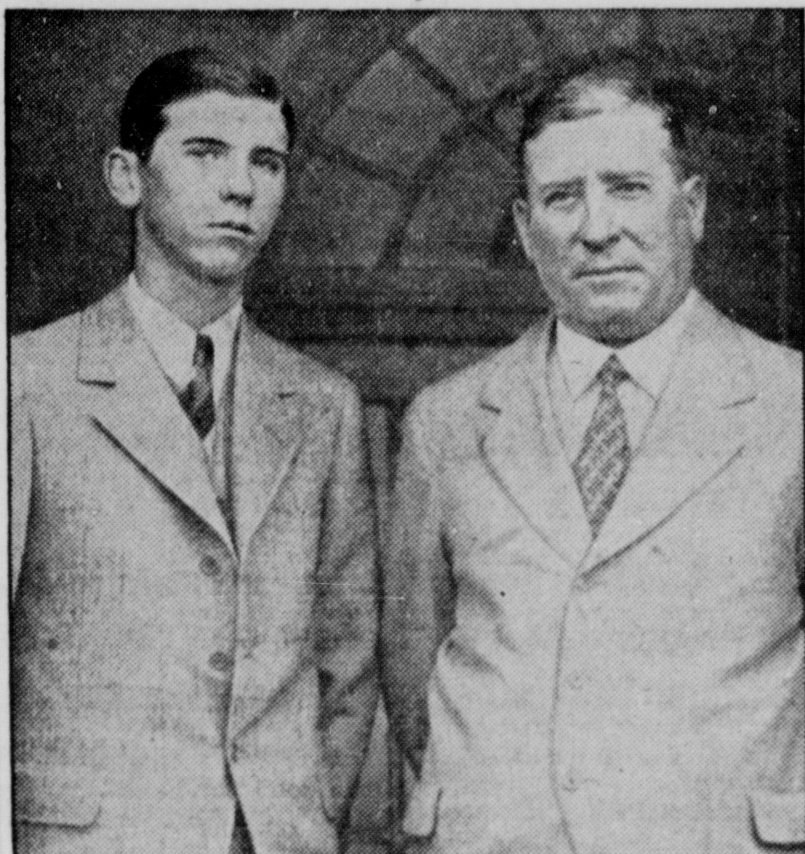

Pandanus fruit and coconuts are the principal crops of the Gilbert Islands, an extensive archipelago belonging to Great Britain in the mid-western Pacific ocean. Phosphate, copra and shark fins are exported.

FIRE FOLLOWS BLAST THAT TOOK 16 LIVES

Here is the blazing hoist of the Letheridge collieries at Coalhurst, Alberta, Can., as flames flared after an oil drum burst following an explosion deep within the mine which killed 16 miners. The fire endangered rescue workers who were removing bodies of the victims from the depths of the mine. (Associated Press Photo)

TAMMANY LEADER'S SON SHOT

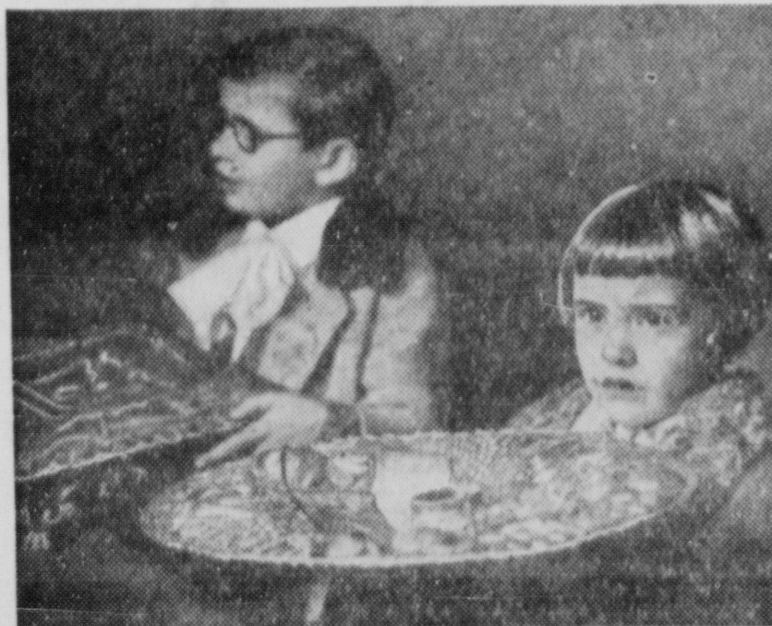

A short while after he had given a farewell party at Saranac Lake, N. Y., George W. Olvany, Jr. (left), son of former Judge George Washington Olvany (right), former Tammany leader, was found critically shot on the grounds of a deserted hotel. Police said notes were found indicating the youth attempted suicide. (Associated Press Photo)

Charles A. Cobb, 41, is shown with his wife and two sons, Robert (left), 12, and Charles, 11, whom he slew at Omaha, Neb., because, he explained in a note, he could no longer stand the burden of heavy debt facing him. Cobb died of monoxide gas poisoning with his pet dog; his wife's head was crushed and the boys were strangled. (Associated Press Photo)

CHEAP AIRPLANE LANDS ITSELF, SAYS DESIGNER

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 16 (AP).—A cozy little monoplane "you can learn to fly in three lessons" was entered Friday in the government's competition for cheap, simple craft.

The plane, designed to fit the pocketbook of the man who buys a medium-priced motor car, was built here by Hayden Campbell, world war pilot. He says the all-metal, two-passenger ship "just lands itself when brought in on the glide—and can't nose over."

It is powered with an automobile engine mounted to the rear and above the cabin. This is to increase visibility, do away with propeller draft and reduce noise.

Broomcorn Trail Not Good Evidence

Oklahoma City (AP).—Farmer Lige Moseley was "just sure" that was his broomcorn.

After the theft of 600 pounds of broomcorn from his Garvin county farm, Moseley testified he and a neighbor followed a trail of broomcorn ears several miles, to the home of a farmer accused—and later convicted—of the theft.

Defense attorneys summoned witnesses who testified that more than 100 tons of broomcorn had been hauled over the same road.

Moseley alleged he knew every stalk picked up along the highway was his.

But the state criminal appeal court set aside the conviction on the ground of insufficient evidence.

SLAYER PICKS FAT JURY

FOR MERCY AND WINS

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 16 (AP).—A plump jury selected on a theory that fat men are always kind hearted convicted W. L. Mayo, 25, of second degree murder Friday, and recommended a 15-year sentence.

The case, in which Mayo was accused of killing Johnnie Dotson, 26, last October, was described by Attorney General Peabody Howard as the "strongest" he had offered in some time.

Marian Martin Says High-Rising Panel "Trims Down" A Forty-Six

PATTERN 9613

If you've waited until now to make your winter selection, here's a semi-dressy, all-purpose style that's young in spirit—slim in line, but cut with due thought for the larger figure. Outstanding is the high-rising skirt panel which molds and slims the waist with soft, indefinable folds. Rejoice at the diagonal lines both in bodice and skirt, which hurry the observing eye past that spot we'd rather conceal—lines that don't divide a figure into too easily computed halves. No elaborate trimming, either—just a simple pointed collar in some flattering shade, and orderly rows of tiny buttons on bodice and cuffs. Crepe or satin of dull finish, or a ribbed silk would be nice. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9613 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 39-inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

The New Marian Martin Pattern Book will be ready for mailing December 18. Place your order now, and be among the first to receive a copy. It's a practical pattern book that interprets Spring's newest fashions in thrifty, easy-to-make clothes for the whole family! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and a pattern together, twenty-five cents.

To Keep—Or Make For Gifts Practical Marian Martin Aprons

PATTERN 9671

With holiday festivities so near at hand, give a thought to those whose successful entertaining, for the most part, depends on heavy kitchen duty. So get busy, and make up a supply of gay coverly aprons for yourself and those who "lend a hand." And as inexpensive Christmas gifts, there's nothing more practical, or more acceptable! They're mighty easy to make, too. Give a cheer for shoulder straps that are fashioned in one piece with the back—for they can't slip! Apron "A" can cook up the loveliest surprises—given the freedom of the kitchen, and works best in sturdy gingham or percale that's been pre-shrunk. Self ruffling trims dainty Apron "B"—crisp and feminine in swiss or dimity. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9671 may be ordered only in sizes small, medium, large and extra large. Small size requires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch fabric for each apron.

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

HATS ARE OUT OF MY LINE

"What do you think of my hat?" said she. I answered her with my broadest smile. "It looks like an upturned boat to me."

me, But I presume it's the latest style. "However, my dear, since you've asked, I'll say If you had hurt me beyond repair And I wanted revenge in the bitterest way, I'd buy you that sort of a hat to wear."

"If cruelty were my sweetest joy, And I wanted the ugliest thing to use, Swiftly your loveliness to destroy, That's the identical hat I'd choose."

"If I were seeking the surest way Of hiding your charms from the human eye, If I had hate in my heart, I say, That is the hat I should have you buy!" I knew when I spoke that my views were vain. I knew what her answering speech would be. Regretting and pitying my poor brain: "That's all you know about hats!" said she.

THINK SOCIETY
YOUTH KIDNAPT

Caleb J. Milne, 4th, Disappears From His New York
Apartment Saturday.

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Caleb J. Milne, 4th, member of a socially prominent Philadelphia family, disappeared Saturday from his New York apartment and Sunday was reported kidnapped for ransom.

Ransom Note Received
At the Woodstock (N. Y.) home of his mother, a woman who said she was an aunt of the youth asserted he had been kidnapped, that a ransom note had been received and that federal agents were working on the case.

The woman declined to give her name but said she was a sister of Mrs. Frederica Lucy Milne, young Caleb's mother. Mrs. Milne, she said, left hurriedly for New York.

"I can't give any information except that Caleb has been kidnapped in New York and that a ransom note has been received," she told the Associated Press.

"Naturally we are all very upset at this occurrence. I don't know what's advisable to tell the press. The federal agents are on the job in New York."

Department of justice agents here said merely "no comment."

Caleb J. Milne, 2d, wealthy Philadelphia textile manufacturer and grandfather of the missing youth, was inclined, however, to regard the supposed ransom note as "some sort of a hoax."

Grandfather Skeptical
"I don't believe the boy was kidnapped," he said at his home. "If I did I wouldn't be here at home. I would be in New York."

"I think he just stayed away and his brother became excited. The matter will be explained by morning, I suspect. I have been in touch with his father, the police of New York and Boston and I have heard nothing to convince me he is in the hands of abductors."

Young Caleb's disappearance first was reported to police by his brother and roommate, Frederic. He told police Caleb left a note early yesterday morning that he was going to Philadelphia for the day to see his grandfather, who was ill.

2 CALLES' AIDES
ARE DISCHARGED

President Cardenas Moves to Avert Revolt Under Leadership of Calles.

Mexico City, Dec. 16 (AP).—President Lazaro Cardenas struck swiftly Sunday to gain the upper hand
over the newly returned Plutarco Elias Calles in what appeared to be a rapidly approaching showdown over whether the President or the erstwhile "Iron Man" will rule the political destinies of Mexico.

Cardenas announced the dismissals of General Medina Veytia as chief of the military zone of the Valley of Mexico and General Joaquin Amaro as director of the National Military school. Thus, observers said, the President balked any possibility of an immediate military coup.

The two generals like the five senators expelled Saturday on charges of "seditious and rebellious"
activities, were among the strongest supporters of former President Calles.

Accusations against the expelled
senators, made public Sunday, said
the government had learned "a conspiracy is being carried on against the government of the republic by those political interests were injured
by the breaking off of relationships
between Calles and the government."

It also was contended that the dismissed senators and other Callistas have been meeting secretly with Calles, "who frankly revealed he returned to Mexico with the idea of assuming leadership of his supporters in order to restore an illegal situation."

The situation referred to existed
during the years in which Calles really ran the country. It ended last

June, when Cardenas refused to accept the former president's suggestions regarding economic and political policies.

See Tactical Error
If Calles really is planning a conspiracy as the senate charged, neutral political experts believed he committed a grave tactical error by coming to Mexico.

The former president himself remained silent and outwardly there was nothing unusual going on in the vicinity of his home.

Actually, however, the neighborhood was full of police and plainclothesmen ready to halt any suspicious activities.

Thus, Calles hands were tied and
many considered him a virtual prisoner.

Materialism

John, which if let loose would cause
king's knees to quake and their kingdoms to tremble. He would not have dared to call upon a legion of soldiers to defend him had they been at his command. They might have saved the head of him but the heart and soul of John the Baptist would have been lost. Jesus could not accept the protection of the sword or of the external force that a whole company of angels might have exerted to save him, for to do so would have made him only one of the forgotten men of his century.

Christ Vs. Caesar

"When the missionaries decided that they could no longer accept the protection of their government's gunboats when they went into danger zones they were cutting the cord
that ties so many contrary kinds of power in the same bundle for most of us. It is the old story of Christ

against Caesar, or of the inner authority of the spirit against the external authority of kings and world powers.

"Not every one can be a St. Paul,
a St. Francis, a Luther, a Wesley,
or a Kagawa. But every one is created to be an instrument for breathing forth a certain spiritual force that is genuine. The centers of soul force which have affected us
most along the way are the Johns rather than the Herods. Those who have meant most for a vital faith
in us have been they who themselves relied least upon external means and power for their own standing in the world. Those who are most preoccupied with matters that represent external power are the least likely to count in the lives of others. We make the tragic mistake of thinking that the world's successful men are the ones we ought to secure to stimulate our youth. As a rule we had better look to those who do not seem to be fellow travelers to count for much in their time, even as John and Jesus didn't rank among their generation.

Not Genuine

"One reason so many well-meaning people fail to exert the full degree of spiritual power upon their fellows is that they hope to be because they are not deeply genuine,
not thoroughly honest. But instead their outstanding characteristic is compromise and clever diplomacy,
all of which is thoroughly devastating to spiritual authority."

"Emerson said that what Christians need most is 'a first-hand acquaintance with Deity.' Study courses, discussions, lectures, books,
and sermons will not give that to us.
They are only stumbling blocks to our spiritual life unless they serve
to send us back into our own private laboratory of meditation and communion with God."

"Shortly we shall be led in our thinking by a star until standing over the stable it lights us to the object of its course. Just a mere child—the most frail of all the world's contents. So helpless and powerless it had to be protected
from the roughness of the stable
and the authority of Herod. And so that Child grew into manhood, but he always seemed so like the humble

child still before the world's brand of brazen power. They hounded
him and tortured him and put him
on the cross to show what they could do to him and his kind.

"But yet we are persuaded that he was the mightier, that the power
he possessed was of the nature of that on which the universe rests.
That all other power bears the semblance of children at play in their make-believe worlds, for when

the day's play is done that power is gone and only that authority prevails and that strength endures
which He had and which the world cannot give."

The Economics of Advertising
THE public has become economics conscious. Everybody is getting a smattering of it, and people have begun to question the economic value of many things in business and government. Economic justification is demanded of all actions touching public welfare. Methods of conducting business have come in for special scrutiny. Questions are sometimes raised about the wisdom of spending large sums for advertising, an essential part of the distribution system. It is helpful to trace the economic effects of this advertising and weigh its value to society.
That advertising is useful to the individual business can hardly be questioned.
Business men everywhere have analyzed
the matter for themselves and we may take their word for it that advertising is an efficient and profitable method for stimulating sales. Since its purpose is to help sell goods every advertiser may check
the results. Nothing else could do the same job so cheaply.
The advantages of advertising to any particular company are more obvious than its value to the whole economic system.
But the fact is that it eventually benefits
society more than individual advertisers.
Because it is so effective in helping to sell goods, advertising cuts down selling costs
and at the same time makes mass distribution possible. Savings in production costs follow. Hence advertising tends to lower the price of many commodities.
Besides helping to provide goods more cheaply, advertising leads consumer demand into channels where industry is best fitted to serve the public. Development of new industries is made rapid by the use of advertising. It encourages invention and brings new products more quickly into the homes of consumers than could be possible without it. Improvement of existing products proceeds much faster because of the stimulating influence of advertising.
The very soul of competition, advertising encourages manufacturers and dealers to compete along lines most advantageous to consumers and most conducive to industrial progress. Through trademarks, advertising establishes standards of identity helpful to all buyers. Newspapers, magazines, and radio are supported chiefly by advertising.
Probably the most important economic effect of advertising results from its stimulation of all trade. It makes purchasing power turn over faster, which leads to larger total production of wealth and greater income per capita. The advertising of articles that improve living conditions generates popular desire for better
standards and hastens their realization.
The growth of advertising as a business
practice is one of the most important factors in our national development. It is no exaggeration to say that advertising is as vital to our economic progress as fast
transportation or modern credit and banking facilities. Its exact value cannot be appraised separately because it is an integral part of our business system. Yet
the effects of advertising as a single force
can clearly be seen.
While employed to increase the sale of merchandise by individual firms, advertising speeds up the whole economic machine to a faster rate of production and consumption. Boiled down a few words,
the net results of advertising are greater production, more employment, lower prices, and higher standards of living.

FOR ITALY'S POT OF METAL

The League of Nations may cut off Italy's supply of metals to cramp the Ethiopian campaign, but the country won't suffer if these little schoolgirls can help it. The teacher is shown smiling approval as one youngster donates a metal paper. (Associated Press Photo) astute ballyhoosers, the whole "come on" idea being hinged on its "stunt" possibilities. Broadway always goes for stunts, if they are good.

There was "The Miracle" for which Morris Gest transformed the Century theatre into a cathedral. It was one of the most spectacular productions ever brought to Broadway. After its sensational run in New York Gest went all over the country rebuilding theatres into cathedrals for its presentation.

"Grand Hotel" was another stunt, involving lightning fast revolving stages. Its arrival was really one of the most exciting first nights in rialto history. "Strange Interlude" was a stunt pure and simple. The idea of nine acts, with dinner intermission, greatly excited and intrigued playgoers. "The Great Waltz" was so tremendous the stage had to be built to fit it, and when the Center theatre, in Sixth avenue, got through with the transformation $100,000 had been spent.

There is, too, the ever current "Tobacco Road," which has three tons of dirt on the stage. They tell me the actors, to kill time, have planted Irish potatoes backstage and that they are getting ready to harvest a real crop.

They go in for numbers at the St. Moritz. . . . There is the new Continental room, where one of the pretty Lane sisters, Lota, is singing in the smart dinner and supper show. . . . Then there is the Cosmopolitan dance with six rhythms by Caperton and Columbus. . . . And finally, the glass mirlans on the stage representing the seven deadly sins. . . . delightfully mad Engelman, A. Gordon-Foster, designed the mirlans, which are a new type engraved on glass by a blowing process. . . .

Each of these wall murals is four feet by ten and they represent Anger, Envy, Greed, Gluttony, Pride, Lust and Laziness. . . . They encircle a room really continental in design, where an ultra social register crowd dances to the rhythms of Ron Perry's excellent music. . . . Jack Dempsey once said to me, "I fear all fighters; they are all dangerous until you have them on the floor." . . . Perry said, indicating with a sweeping gesture the high hat and ermine crowd: "They're 'bark' avenue now but watch them go Main Street and sing." . . . He went back to his orchestra and gradually slipped into a melange of tunes which everyone knew. . . . One of his men began to sing. . . . Apert young deb subconsciously joined in. . . . In five minutes everybody was singing. . . . I don't know what the Greeks called it but on Broadway that's showmanship.
